SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO. 50X1-HUM

THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION 50X1-HUM

1. A military airfield at Mokrad (Q50/D29) covers an area of about 2,000 meters by 1,200 meters. The surface is clay and is sodded. The western two-thirds of the field is level; the eastern third is sloped toward the east. The field is useable even after heavy rains, but heavy fog and winter snows restrict traffic. Local military units and about 100 civilians are engaged in building houses at the field, allegedly for an Air Force Academy which is shortly to be located there. At the field are stationed 3 Zlin, 4 Arado, 2 Storch, 2 Piper, 3 Buecker and 1 Nordmann airplanes.
2. In the Muran hills about two miles northwest of Muran (Q49/D45) is a large level area which served as a landing field for the Slovak partisans during the Slovak uprising in 1944. The field is not in use at present and is difficult to operate from because of the steep slopes which surround it.
